ON THE FLY

HE'S FAMOUS FOR IMPROV, BUT WAYNE BRADY DEFINITELY HAS A PLAN

Actor, singer and television host Wayne Brady grew up down the road in Orlando. Since then, his name has become synonymous with comedy improvisation, acting and singing. This versatile performer has been all over the world with his musical improv show It's My Line, and on August 27, he comes to the Thrasher-Horne Center. Jax Mag spoke with him on July 13.

- "The audience can write down titles of songs that don't exist, and then I make them up on stage with my keyboardist. We take suggestions from people on Twitter. I sometimes Periscope scenes so that people can give me suggestions," Brady says. "We basically try to build an environment in which I'm finding out what's happening in the show at the exact same time as the audience does. And that's where the magic is."
- Brady has one daughter, Maile, who's 13. "She sings, she dances, she acts. Like any parent you want your kid to be version 2.0 of yourself," he says. "Or, she could just have all these skills and want to be a doctor. I just tell her to make sure that whatever she does, she throws herself into it 100 percent."
- Along with this show and his gig hosting Let's Make a Deal, let's just say Brady's definitely taking his own advice. "I just finished up Kinky Boots on Broadway... I'm doing the workshop now for a show called Smokey Joe's Cafe... We've got the next season of Who's Line. I'm also on the next season of Kevin Hart's Real Husbands of Hollywood on BET. I'm producing a pilot for an improv show. And I'm coming out with an album this fall." *
